Health Innovation Pavilion

Where health care meets what's next

Health care is moving fast, especially in the age of artificial intelligence. The Health Innovation Pavilion is where leaders come to make sense of what's real, what's working and what's coming next.

Located in the Science & Technology Hall, the Pavilion brings together health system leaders, clinicians, researchers, and innovators to explore how emerging technologies, from AI and digital health to data-driven care models, are being applied in the real world.

This is not about future promises. It's about practical innovation, grounded in science and built for impact.

The Pavilion is home to the Health Tech Competition, where breakthrough ideas are pressure-tested on stage. It also offers high-impact sponsorship opportunities designed for meaningful visibility, content integration and direct engagement with decision-makers shaping the future of care.
